Social Media Threat determined Not Credible

La Habra, California – November 18, 2019: The La Habra Police Department has not found any evidence that a social media threat is credible. On Sunday, November 17th, at approximately 10:30 p.m., the La Habra Police Department was notified of social media threats that were circulating among students of Whittier Christian High School. The social media post contained threats of a possible school shooting at Whittier Christian High School.

Officers identified the source of the social media post and made contact with a former student of the high school and his parents. After an extensive investigation, the La Habra Police Department found no evidence that lends credibly to the threats towards Whittier Christian High School or any other school in the area.

Prior to the determination that the social media threats were non credible, Whittier Christian High School cancelled classes for the day as a precautionary measure. In an abundance of caution, the La Habra Police Department is continuing to investigate this incident and no arrests have been made.

Parents are reminded to discuss potential consequences for their children’s actions (including social media usage) whether intentional or not. The incident prompted an extra police presence at the school campus and messages from school officials assuring parents that students are safe.
